

Sinclair Broadcasting's choice to air an anti-Kerry documentary shortly before the November elections is an obvious effort to influence voters. Of course, Sinclair refused to air an edition of "Nightline" that listed U.S. casualties in Iraq because it was "too political." This company has a clear agenda, and demonstrates the dangers of media concentration in the hands of a few.

Thank you.